If you have any problems with the information supplied or the workings of the chattels please contact us as soon as possible on 375 4800.

Insurance

The property owners insurance does not cover tenants belongings or liability. For this reason and to protect your assets, we strongly recommend that all tenants have their own contents and indemnity insurance. These policies generally cover third party damage, which you may cause to the owners property.

As an example, in the event of a fire caused carelessly or deliberately by the tenant or their guests, the owner's insurer may take action to recover the costs for the damage, from the tenant(s).

The owner is only responsible for insuring the house and the owners property in the house.

Fixed term tenancies

Bayleys Property Management prefer to sign fixed term tenancies with most tenants as this gives both the tenant and the property owner assurance over the coming months.

Tenancy terms do vary, often so that tenancies do not end during the Pre-Christmas and middle of winter periods, which are off season times for prospective tenants.

Please note the following points and if you have any queries please ask your property manager to clarify these for you.

Under a fixed term tenancy, tenants are not able to give notice to end the tenancy

- The tenancy runs from the start date to the end date
- This means that as the tenant you are secure in the property as the landlord cannot give notice to end the tenancy
- Under the Residential Tenancies Act 1986 there is no automatic 'Right of Renewal' for a fixed term Tenancy – we are not obligated to extend the tenancy.
- We will contact you 5-12 weeks prior to the end of your tenancy to discuss renewal or ending options and terms
- Bayleys Property Management can always take offers to the property owner for consideration but cannot guarantee acceptance until the offer is made in writing
- Once any extension is agreed, the tenant must sign the extension letter and return it

Breaking a fixed term tenancy

We understand that circumstances change and that prior to the end of your fixed term tenancy you may want to break your lease because of a major change to your circumstances.

Below is a brief outline of how we can go about assisting you to break your tenancy, and your obligations.

Note however, that under the Residential Tenancies Act 1986 we are not legally obligated to allow you to break a fixed term tenancy, however we will do whatever we can to assist you.

Please make note of the following points you should know to complete the break lease process:

As the tenant you are responsible for paying the rent until a suitable replacement tenant signs a new tenancy agreement and pays their deposit, bond and first weeks rent

- We require written notification of the date you wish to end the tenancy and payment of an administration fee which includes all internet advertising of the property
- We will not start marketing the property or sign a new tenancy agreement without written notification and payment of the administration fee.
- We prefer at least 6 weeks to market your property – please give us as much time as possible to help you to find suitable replacement tenants
- Any new tenants will have to meet the same criteria as you before they will be accepted for a tenancy - we reserve the right to accept or decline any application received
- Once we have signed a new Tenancy and received a deposit from the new tenants, you will be notified in writing of the date we will release you from your tenancy

Periodic tenancies

On some occasions both the tenant and property owner will agree on a periodic tenancy. In this case the owner and tenant obligations are the same as for a fixed term tenancy.

To end a periodic tenancy the tenant must give a minimum of 28 days notice to their property manager in writing (email is acceptable). Note that the 28 days notice starts from the business day the notice is received, not when the notice is dated.

The property owner can end the tenancy by giving 90 days notice if they are wanting to sell the property, or 63 days notice if the owner or their family are moving into the property, or it is sold and vacant possession is required.

Chattels

Any chattels included with your property and as part of the Tenancy Agreement will be listed on your condition report.

If there is any discrepancy with this list, please ensure you contact your property manager within seven days of the start of your tenancy, otherwise we will accept the supplied list and condition report as correct.

Paying your rent

We expect that all rents are paid by automatic payment in advance, as per your Tenancy Agreement. We also require just one payment per tenancy. So if you have more than one tenant at your property, we highly recommend you open a joint/flat account from which to pay your rent and joint bills and accounts.

In the event that your automatic payment to Bayleys Property Management is not made on the scheduled night there are two ways to pay your missed rent:

- Cash or Eftpos at our office
- Direct payment into our trust account via internet banking – Note you must use your reference number (noted on your tenancy agreement) and we recommend you email us to advise payment has been made, preferably with the receipt details

The following methods of payment are not acceptable:

- Paying by cheque – unless previously arranged with your property manager, or with a Bank cheque
- Paying direct at an ASB branch, as there is no way for us to identify where these payments have come from

When you make deposits by internet banking, or automatic payment, banks allow you three areas in which to add details to show up on the other parties statement.

These are the Particulars field, Code field and the Reference field. These are all 12 characters long.

To ensure your rent payment is correctly processed we recommend you use the fields as follows:

Particulars – Your Name (eg Tom Jones)

Code – Tenancy address (eg 100 Fitzgerald)

Reference – Your unique reference number (noted on your tenancy agreement) (eg 10000207)

When making any payment please ensure your bank is using the reference number provided, as if we cannot identify your payment we will have to charge you $20 to have the bank search where the payment has come from.

Reference number and Bayleys Property Management Bank Account

Your reference number is noted on your tenancy agreement (page 2 section 4) and on the cover letter attached to this guide.

Bayleys Property Managements Bank Account Number for rent deposits is:

Bank	Branch	Account Number	Suffix
1 2	3 1 9 1	0 0 0 7 6 4 6	0 2

Rent Arrears

Bayleys Property Management have a zero rent arrears policy which we strictly implement and action with all tenants.

Many of our owners have substantial financial commitments and employ us to action our rent arrears policy strictly. We do not apologise for this process, as this is one of the primary reasons property owners use our services.

We do implore you to contact us prior to missing a rent payment so that if possible we can make appropriate arrangements.

The following is the process we follow for all tenant arrears:

Day 1 in arrears

We give you the first day as a buffer, as sometimes banks can alter the payment date due to public holidays, or for other reasons. We do expect you to pay your rent on this day if your regular payment has not been made for some reason.

Day 2 in arrears

If payment has still not been received, we will send you a text and/or email, stating the rent due date and the amount due. It will also ask you to contact our office immediately regarding the arrears. This message will be followed up with a phone call and if rent is not paid on this day we will issue a 14 Day Notice by email, to remedy the breach in your responsibilities as specified in the Residential Tenancies Act 1986. The property manager will update the owner regarding this issue.

Day 5-8 in arrears

If payment is still not received we apply to the Tenancy Tribunal. The Department of Building and Housing will generally schedule a “mediation” hearing with the tenant, property manager and an appointed mediator.

Mediation Hearing

In this hearing we all try to reach an agreement over how and when the arrears will be paid. If this step in the process is unsuccessful we will request the matter is heard by the Tenancy Tribunal at the local Court Buildings.

Tenancy Tribunal

We may seek termination of the tenancy depending on the circumstances.

Note that any decisions made by the Tenancy Tribunal are a matter of public record and therefore are available for all future landlords, employers, creditors etc to see on your record for seven years.

Routine property maintenance inspections

Routine property inspections are primarily to ensure the owners property is being maintained to the standard expected by the owner.

The initial property inspection will be completed approximately six weeks after the start of the tenancy and every three months thereafter.

Your property manager will send you a letter via email advising you of the date and approximate time of the inspection. The Residential Tenancies Act 1986 requires a minimum of 48 hours notice is provided.

The property manager does not require you to attend the inspection, but you are most welcome to be there if you wish to be. It is unlikely that the day and time of the inspection can be changed, unless there are extenuating circumstances.

These inspections will help the property manager

- Identify any routine maintenance requirements
- Outline to the owner any medium to long term investments that may be required or planned for eg new carpet, heating, refurbishments etc - note this capital expenditure is at the discretion of the property owner
- Check that the property is being well cared for and kept clean and tidy, and if necessary issue any 14 day notices for breaches of the tenancy agreement. Any such letter will outline the breach and give 14 days for the tenant to rectify the issue.

Property maintenance

Bayleys Property Management prefers all non-urgent maintenance requests to be emailed to your Property Manager.

If possible we would like you to include the following information:

1. Property Address

4. Best contact for access

1. Broken/unusable toilet
2. Both the oven and stove not working

5. Water leaks/floods
6. No hot water for 24 hours+
7. Electrical faults
8. Sewerage blocks/floods
9. Other emergency issues that require immediate attention to ensure the property is habitable or that would cause further damage to the property.

Condensation and mildew

Condensation is a major property maintenance issue for two key reasons:

1. It can accelerate damage to a property
2. It can have detrimental effects on the health of occupants

Many Christchurch homes have condensation and mould issues due to the cold winter temperatures and high moisture levels.

The following information is provided by a local council website

Keeping condensation and mildew at bay

Condensation and mildew in homes are mainly winter problems but they can occur all year round in some situations. The purpose of this information is to provide some simple guidelines to minimise the moisture burden inside your home, therefore reducing the level of condensation and mildew.

Condensation occurs when the air becomes saturated with water vapour to the point where it cannot hold any further moisture, i.e. high moisture burden. In areas where there is a temperature difference between two surfaces, such as with windows, some of the moisture will condense on to the colder surface. Condensation can leave water stains and if persistent, can lead to mildew growth and will help rot set in.

Mildew and other fungal growths grow from spores that abound everywhere. Mildew needs moisture in order to grow so the more persistently damp a situation the more likely mildew will grow.

How can you reduce the level of condensation?

There are two ways to reduce the level of condensation in your home - by heating and ventilation. Heating will raise the air temperature and allow the air to hold more moisture, ventilation then removes the moisture to the outside.

Condensation: tips to remember

- Keep the house warm, generally 5-7°C warmer than the outside is recommended. A little heat constantly throughout the day is more effective than a lot of heat in the evenings.
- Space heaters, open fires or electric heaters and heat pumps are best to provide warmth. Gas or oil heaters give off moisture as they provide heat, thereby contributing to the air moisture burden
- It is better to have many windows slightly open for long periods than a few wide open for short bursts, as this prevents the home from losing too much heat as well as providing a more constant level of ventilation. However, there are times when opening windows wide helps to remove large quantities of moisture rapidly, the most obvious times being during cooking or using a shower or bath

- Keep doors closed when using the bathroom or kitchen to prevent the steam spreading through your home. Extract fans over a shower or stove for example, will also assist to remove air moisture from the room but do ensure it is ducted outside, not into the ceiling or wall cavities. If you have a clothes drier, ensure it is also ducted to the outside
- Use heavy curtains that cover the windows completely so they 'seal off' the cooler surface from the warmer air
- Wipe any moisture off glass or cold surfaces when condensation has occurred
- Avoid hanging wet clothes indoors to dry out.
- Limit the number and size of houseplants as the plants themselves, along with watering, can add to the level of moisture in the air
- Provide ventilation to wardrobes by such means as louver doors or cupboard heaters. Products like Damprid remove moisture from the air but they must be changed regularly
- The use of dehumidifiers in particularly cold and damp areas is recommended. Dehumidifiers can remove up to 5 litres of water per day - imagine the ongoing effect of that water being retained by your furniture, blankets, and the house itself.

Dealing with Mildew

Mildew can usually be washed out of clothing and curtains; however, if this is not done in time, it can leave permanent stains.

For mildew growing on walls and ceilings, clean the area down with a damp cloth and household bleach. 1 part bleach to 4 parts water is recommended. Use a test-patch to make sure the bleach does not affect the paint or wallpaper colour. If the colour is damaged, try a fungicide solution, which you can purchase from most paint or hardware shops.

When the mildew has been removed, ensure it does not recur by keeping your home warm throughout and moderately ventilated.

So remember to prevent condensation and mildew, it's a bit like real estate, the golden rule is "Ventilation, ventilation, ventilation"

If you have major concerns regarding condensation and mildew and these tips have not helped the situation, please contact your property manager.

Carpet stain removal

If you have a stain on your carpet, depending on what it is from, it may require specialist treatment to remove. Please take a lot of care with the likes of makeup, nail polish, grease, oil, ink, paint and fizzy drink as these things are often not able to be removed from carpets.

Here is some general information on how to deal with spillages and stains:

Coffee, tea, soft drinks, alcohol, food, general wear and tear – use water sparingly to dilute the stain. Pat the area with old colour free towels etc to absorb excess water and liquid.

The best advice is to put water sparingly on most stains and then press on a towel to absorb excess moisture so you don't end up with a watermark.

Once dry, if the stain is noticeable, please contact your property manager who can put you in touch with the best contractors to remove stains.

Air Conditioners/Heat Pumps

Your heat pump will give you years of trouble free service if you follow a few simple rules.

Maintenance

Indoor Unit Filter Clean monthly and wash six monthly – dry before re installing. Cleaning the filter ensures the unit works efficiently, and produces the best results. The filter can usually be easily removed by lifting the front of the indoor unit.

Outdoor Unit Keep vegetation away from the unit so airflow is optimised. Check the unit is free of leaves etc monthly.

Care of the Unit Use Spray and Wipe or similar on the exterior of casings inside and out, to clean.

Defrosting

When the temperature outside drops below a certain level, the plant will defrost. When this occurs the indoor and outdoor fans shut off. The defrost generally takes 5-10 minutes, and then resumes normal heating operation.

Do not turn the unit off during this process as it will only take more time to resume proper heating. Often you may see steam rising from the outdoor unit after the defrost takes place.

Operation

It is recommended the temperature in most domestic homes should be 18 degrees to ensure optimum health of the occupants.

We recommend in winter that you have your heat pump turned down at night and when you are away from home, but not turned off.

This ensures heat that has built up during the day is not lost, saving the heat pump having to work very hard to pull the temperature back up during the cold part of the day.

Your heat pump will also remove moisture from the air.

For basic operation we suggest you may wish to set the temperature to 20-25 degrees.

If your unit has a “home leave” option, use this in winter when sleeping or out of the house, set to a lower temperature (perhaps 15-17 degrees) in Heat Mode.

When you are home or get up in the morning, simply push the button again and the unit will heat to the desired temperature.

When using the remote control, always ensure the unit beeps when you change settings – this confirms the unit has received the signal.

We also recommend that you do not use the swing option when in heating mode.
